

RIXEY TO BE ABSENT

Writes Alexandria Man He Cannot Attend Congress.

ILL IN NEW YORK SANATORIUM

Falls Constituents He Will Have Pair on Important Questions—Trial of Robinsons to Be Called To-day. Business Men Plan Banquet—Gen. Lee's Birthday to Be Celebrated.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU, (Bell Telephone 123.)
Corner of Prince and Royal Streets.

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 4.—In a letter to a friend in this city, dated yesterday, Representative John F. Rixey, who is at Liberty, N. Y., undergoing treatment for an affection of the throat, states that he will be unable to attend this session of Congress, but will have a general pair in that body on all political questions.

He states that his recent sojourn in Colorado did his health much good. Representative Rixey announces that his secretary, J. George Hiden, who has been with him since he first represented this district in Congress, will have an office in Washington, and will attend to all of the department business arising in connection with the eighth district. Mr. Rixey extends his thanks to the Democratic newspapers.

Robinson's Trial To-day.

The cases of John Robinson and his son, J. Harvey Robinson, who were arrested November 15, in connection with the alleged robbery of merchandise from the Southern Railway Company, will be called before Justice Catron, in the Police Court, to-morrow morning. Each of the defendants have furnished $2,000 bond. They will be defended by State Attorney Lewis H. Machen, while Commonwealth Attorney Samuel G. Brent will appear for the State.

Merchants to Give Banquet.

The Retail Merchants' Association of this city will give a banquet at the meeting in January, when the newly elected officers will be installed. These are: B. Well, president; C. R. Yates, first vice president; W. H. Peck, second vice president; M. E. Parker, third vice president; C. F. Schwartz, treasurer; B. Smith, secretary, and A. Bowie, sergeant-at-arms. J. Wolf, John D. Matter, J. E. Merchant, F. C. Matthews, and James McCuen will be installed as trustees.

Athletic Association Named.

The association under the name of the Young Men's Athletic Club, which was recently organized in this city for the promotion of all kinds of athletic sports, has changed its name to the Alexandria Athletic Association. The following officers have been installed for the ensuing year: Edwin A. Thompson, president; Robert Tomlin, vice president; R. C. Reeves, secretary, and B. B. Cline, treasurer.

Will Remember Gen. Lee.

According to long-established custom, the anniversary of the birth of Gen. Robert E. Lee, January 19 next, will be appropriately observed in this city by R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans. The following committee has charge of the arrangements: Capt. Thomas Perry, chairman; Edgar Warfield, G. William Ramsey, P. F. Davidson, and R. M. Latham. The matter of procuring speakers for the occasion is in the hands of Charles S. Taylor.

A large audience assembled in the opera house last evening, when "The Showman's Ward" was presented for the benefit of the family of the late Charles T. Smith, who was killed October 20 while assisting an officer in arresting a negro. The entertainment was under the auspices of the Young Men's Sodality League.

At the meeting of the Alexandria Light Infantry next Monday night, the members will ballot for candidates for the position of second lieutenant. Dr. Carroll H. May and Richard C. Talbot, who were voted for at the meeting last night, when the balloting was without definite result, are expected to be the candidates.

School Superintendents to Meet.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Annapolis, Md., Dec. 4.—Bates Stephens, State superintendent of public education, and several members of the State board of education, arrived in Annapolis to-night for the quarterly session of the board to be held to-morrow. There will also be a meeting of county school superintendents here to-morrow, and practically every county in the State will be represented.

Battle Ships at Newport News.

Newport News, Va., Dec. 4.—The battle ship Louisiana and the armored cruisers Washington and Tennessee are anchored off the Jamestown Exposition grounds. The Louisiana is coaling. She will get away Friday for New Orleans to receive the silver service. The Washington will go to sea Thursday for a shaking down and speed trial, and on Monday they will go South for exhaustive wireless telegraphic tests.

Two Negroes Sent to Penitentiary.

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 4.—In court here this morning John Henry Williams and John Hardy Williams, two negroes charged with assaulting and robbing Oliver Sminsen, a fireman at the Hagerstown Street Railway Company's power-house, one night last July, were found guilty by the court and each sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary.

Col. Stevens Is Improving.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 4.—The condition of Col. Edwin A. Stevens, the millionaire owner of Castle Point, Hoboken, and prominent in the University of the Stevens Institute of Technology, who is seriously ill at the home of his sister near Berryville, is to-night reported satisfactory to the attending physician.

Teachers May Meet at Newport News.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Newport News, Va., Dec. 4.—Superintendent of Public Schools W. R. Morton was advised to-day that both Norfolk and Portsmouth had indorsed this city's claim for the next annual State educational conference, which will be held during the Jamestown Exposition.

School Examiner Is Chosen.

Centerville, Md., Dec. 4.—Prof. B. J. Grimes, for the last two years principal of the Centerville High School, was to-day appointed by the school commissioners to be examiner, to succeed the late Louis L. Beatty.

Woman Robbed by Negro.

Aberdeen, Md., Dec. 4.—As Mrs. Harry Webb was getting on a car at Oakington, near here, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, a colored man snatched her pocketbook, containing $25, out of her hand and ran away.

DAILY FASHION HINT.

Natty Fur Garment.

None of the fur coats now in vogue are smarter than the mink model illustrated. Made by the tailor instead of the furrier, its fit and line are especially admirable. The sleeves are long and finished with broad, rolled cuffs. A military collar of champagne-colored velvet is trimmed with dark brown soutache. The revers, also of velvet, are handsomely braided and fastened flat to the coat by means of heavy dark brown braided motifs. A dark brown velvet belt defines the waist line prettily, and gives to the really one-piece coat a suggestion of pleatings.

CHAPTER XII.

The New Page.

Things went very smoothly at Gore Hall after Durham had established Lucy as its mistress during the absence of Bernard. The girl herself firmly believed that her cousin was dead and assumed deep mourning. She had been fond of Bernard in a sisterly way, and felt his loss deeply. It was her outspoken affection that provoked a quarrel between her and Julius, and which led to the breaking of their engagement. Lucy had a high temper, which had been kept in subjection during the life of Sir Simon. But now that she tasted the sweets of power she was not disposed to allow Julius to treat her as he chose.

Mrs. Gilroy came back from her visit to the lawyer in rather a dejected frame of mind. She saw that she had gone too far and had given Durham an inkling as to the possibility of Michael having masqueraded as Bernard. The housekeeper had thought her position unassailable, knowing that she had married Walter Gore; and although there was a flaw in the circumstances upon which she built her claim, yet she trusted to her own cleverness to conceal this from the too-clever lawyer. But, apart from this, the fact that she suspected some one of passing himself off as Bernard startled her, and opened an abyss at her feet. On leaving the office she judged it best to lower her crest for the moment and to wait patiently to see what would transpire. Mrs. Gilroy was a well-educated woman and very astute, therefore she hoped to gain her ends by craft if not by force. So far she had failed, but she did not intend to abandon her claim for one failure.

As it was, she came back to the Hall and behaved herself much better than she had ever done before. She was respectful to Lucy, and did not display her impatience of commands that she had hitherto done. No one could have been meeker, and although Miss Randolph did not like or trust the woman, she had no fault to find with her in any way. Lucy suffered severely from the shock of Sir Simon's tragic death, and from the supposed death of Sir Bernard. In fact the matter so preyed on her nerves that she became prostrate, and Dr. Payne had to be called in. He was a handsome and popular young doctor who had practiced in Washington. As this was the first time he had been called to the Hall, he was naturally very pleased, and was very attentive.

"A complete rest is what you need," he said to Miss Randolph. "I think you should keep to your bed as much as possible, and I will give you a tonic. Naturally, you suffer from the terrible circumstances of Sir Simon's death." He thought a moment and then continued: "Cheerful companion would do you good. Shall I ask Miss Malleon to come over?" "Is she cheerful?" asked Lucy languidly. "I fear not, doctor. She was engaged to my cousin, and his death has made her sad."

"Probably," she bears up wonderfully. But that she is in mourning one would hardly guess she had sustained such a loss. Was she very much attached to Mr. Gore?" "Yes, I never saw a more attached couple. Did you ever meet him?" "Once, at Miss Plinthen's. You know I am great friends with the old lady. I often visit her; not professionally, for she is as healthy as a trout in a pond."

"Is Alice—Miss Malleon—also well?" "Is very good health, and appears resigned to her loss."

"I should have thought she would have felt it more," said Lucy, perplexed. "Alice has such a tender heart."

Dr. Payne was doubtful. So far as he saw, Miss Malleon was remarkably cheerful under her sorrow. "She is philosophic, Miss Randolph, and that is wise. I think, however, if you would have her over to see you, it would do both her and yourself good."

"I shall write a note to her to-day," said Lucy. "I am very fond of her, and we get on very well together. Poor Alice. I wish Bernard had lived, so that she could have married her."

"From what I read in the papers it is just as well Mr. Gore did not live," said Payne, rising to take his leave. "If he was guilty—"

"Ah!" said Lucy, raising herself with animation from the sofa, upon which she was lying. "If he was guilty. There it is, doctor. I do not believe he was. Bernard had a high temper, but he could not always control it, and was a kind-hearted boy. He is innocent, I am sure."

"WHITE CAPS" ATTACK HOUSE.

Shots Fired and Threats Made at Ill-mated Couple.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 4.—Trebble has broken out afresh at Indian Springs, this county, where Edward Collins, a white farmer, and Nettie Pye Collins, his negro wife, reside. There seems to be a determined effort to rid the community of the ill-matched couple, though repeated efforts and threats heretofore made have failed.

Sunday night the Collins house was attacked by "White Caps," and shots were fired and threats made through the windows. Collins and his wife were badly frightened and unable to get away. They did not make any defense, though Collins' wife has previously defended the house with a pistol and shotgun. Immediately after their marriage the couple were forced to flee into Pennsylvania, and for a month or longer Collins and the negro had a strenuous time of it.

Several times armed men besieged the house and issued warnings to the couple to leave. The woman invoked the aid of the law and brought weapons into use to defend herself and Collins. For several months they have enjoyed a respite, but the feeling of resentment against them has not died out.

GIVE AID TO AGED VETERAN.

Richmond Citizens Will Assist Man Who Is in Starving Condition.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Richmond, Va., Dec. 4.—Richard Foster, sixty-five years of age, and a Confederate veteran, having been deserted by his wife, after she had lived with him only six years, fell in the road north of the city from hunger last night, the fall rendering him unconscious.

He was discovered wandering in a dazed condition this morning and brought to the city in a buggy where medical attention was administered, and where he will remain until some provision can be made for him.

The old man says that he is from Mathews County, where his two daughters live. He enlisted for the war in Company A, Fifth Maryland Regiment, serving with that regiment four years.

MRS. JESSE TYSON GETS ALL.

Widow Made Sole Heir to Large Property Holdings.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Baltimore, Md., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Edith Johns Tyson, the young widow of Jesse Tyson, will inherit absolutely the fortune constituting the Tyson estate, under the provisions of the testament which was probated in the Orphan's Court of Baltimore County to-day. Mrs. Tyson is named sole executrix without bond.

The will was made on July 24, 1902, and is witnessed by D. K. Este Fisher, John P. Poe, and G. A. Grinkman. The document states:

"I give, devise, and bequeath my entire estate—real, personal, and mixed, and wheresoever the same may be situated—unto my beloved wife, Mrs. Edith Johns Tyson, her heirs, personal representatives, and assigns, absolutely as her own property, and I hereby appoint her sole executrix of this my last will and testament."

Charged With Cutting Neighbor.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 4.—Adam S. Garis, a lawyer of this city, was placed on trial in court to-day for assault. The case came up on an appeal from Justice Hoffman, who found Mr. Garis guilty, and sentenced him to two months in the House of Correction, and is being tried before a jury.

Garis is charged with assaulting "Jack" Shearer, a neighbor who was cut with a knife; but Garis denies using a knife.

Wants $25,000 for New Hospital.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 4.—The annual meeting of the board of lady managers of the Annapolis Emergency Hospital was held last night, when Dr. George Wells, senior member of the medical staff, recommended that the next general assembly be asked for an appropriation of $25,000 for the erection of a new hospital building. The report of the manager was read, and the work of the institution was fast outgrowing the facilities and accommodations of the present building.

"If the rewards for faithful service, for kindness, and courtesy continue to their temptations point we may hope for a vast improvement in both labor and manners. There is need of it, we all know, and so isolated are the cases of unselfish devotion, of universal courtesy and frequent deeds of kindness that stories of them pass around like other curiosities."

I know a family quite remarkable for these attributes with the added quality of unwavering tact. The greatest devotion is shown between the parents and the families of the sons; there is no favoritism shown on either side, and no jealousy. As a wife of one of the sons remarked, if there was a preference in the heart of either parent it was carefully concealed and nobody even suspected it.

A woman's faithful service to her employer has brought a reward in the shape of $18,000, a sum that belittles the fortunes of old age, I should say. Mrs. Sage is opening her purse and doing nice, generous things for men and women who have shown special courtesy to her late husband, and rich families are building up pension lists on which will figure the names of those who have given satisfaction while their strength lasted. In one city, at least, domestic service is being rewarded as it deserves, by prizes for each year's service in a single family.

I really believe that we are largely responsible for the treatment we receive. If we are self-respecting, reliable workers, we are bound to be recognized, save in occasional cases—there are cruel and unappreciative persons scattered all through the world, but they are not in the majority. We can easily recognize and shun them; there are better men and women waiting to secure good work and faithfulness, in all lines.

Courtesy and little acts of kindness are seldom thrown away. It may not be nice to appeal to the mercenary side of human nature, but if it is the way in which to secure comfort and pleasure for the public, is it to be despised? I have never been able to feel any contempt for superficial politeness—veneer is acceptable when solid mahogany is out of the question. Charming manners are delightful even when there is a suspicion that they do not go below the skin.

I heard a feminine book canvasser say that the life would not be possible to self-respecting women were it not for the courtesy sometimes found in refusals to buy. One such instance sweetens a whole day of court, boorish treatment, she affirmed. Why anybody should be rude to a woman or man is trying to earn a living, and approaches prospective patrons with courtesy and business earnestness passes my comprehension. A polite refusal to purchase is not much of a strain on good nature, I should say. Rudeness deserves no special consideration, of course.

SAVELLY WILL BE RETIRED.

Case to Come Up Again at the Present Term of Court.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 4.—Hazel Savelly has been released on bail for re-trial after the jury failed to agree in the case of perjury against him. Savelly was indicted for swearing falsely when accepted as a juror in the trial of the Herman-Tompkins manslaughter case last spring. He disappeared after the trial and went West. Some time ago he returned to his home in this county. He was tried last week, but the jury failed to agree on a verdict. The case will be tried again at the present term of court.

PROTEST RISE IN MILK PRICE.

Richmond Consumers Believe Recent Advance Is Not Justified.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Richmond, Va., Dec. 4.—Pure milk, handled with due regard to the sanitary and hygienic precautions from dairyman to consumer, cannot be retailed at less than 10 cents a quart, is the opinion expressed by Prof. Sedgwick, the eminent bacteriologist, who delivered a lecture on the subject in this city last spring.

Dr. Ernest C. Levy, the city's chief health officer, is inclined to agree with Prof. Sedgwick in this view of the situation, but the chief health officer believes, with the public, that the recent increase in the price of milk is not justifiable. The explanation offered by the large handlers of milk is that the cost of labor is greater than it was a year ago; that it costs more to provide feed for cows; that much cows cost more, and that the new rules of the health department have run up the expenses of the dairymen.

ON TRIAL FOR ROBBERY.

Negroes Try to Prove Alibi, but Witnesses Are Lacking.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Rockville, Md., Dec. 4.—The court heard testimony this afternoon in the case against Robert Carter and James Jones, under indictment for the robbery of William Coffman, on August 22, 1905, near Cabin John Bridge, this county, and took about $5 from him. Carter endeavored to set up an alibi, Jones claiming he spent the night with his mother and sister in Washington. The court ordered summons issued for the alibi witnesses.

FIREMEN CUT BY GLASS.

Two Accidents When Cumberland Dwelling Is Destroyed.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Cumberland, Md., Dec. 4.—The two-story double-frame dwelling on Frederick street, this city, occupied by William Davis, was destroyed by fire, which originated from a defective flue, this morning. James Keon, a fireman, had his hand almost severed at the wrist by a large piece of glass that fell from the building. William Clauson, chief of the central fire department, was also badly cut by flying glass. Davis' loss is about $1,500.

St. John's College Men Honored.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 4.—The following football players at St. John's College will be awarded the "S. J. C." monograms for having participated in a majority of games played this season: Stevens, captain; Brady, Easley, Brasher, Anderson, Warfield, Ruhl, Bordley, Melvin, Magruder, Quimby, Jones, Bennett, Arnold, Gwinn, and Shearer, manager. The election of next year's captain will not be made for a few days, but Alfred Quimby will probably be chosen.

Abram Gardner Passes Away.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 4.—Following a lingering illness of consumption, Abram Gardner, a prominent land owner, of Frederick County, died last evening at his home near Grimes, aged forty-three years. He leaves his widow, seven children, his aged mother, one brother, and two sisters, all of this section.

Sentenced for Liquor Selling.

Rockville, Md., Dec. 4.—Thomas Williams pleaded guilty in a case of selling intoxicating liquor, and was given six months in the house of correction, and other cases against him were settled.

FROM WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT.

If the rewards for faithful service, for kindness, and courtesy continue to their temptations point we may hope for a vast improvement in both labor and manners. There is need of it, we all know, and so isolated are the cases of unselfish devotion, of universal courtesy and frequent deeds of kindness that stories of them pass around like other curiosities.

I know a family quite remarkable for these attributes with the added quality of unwavering tact. The greatest devotion is shown between the parents and the families of the sons; there is no favoritism shown on either side, and no jealousy. ## GET GOVERNORS' PORTRAITS.

Annapolis Authorities Will Hang Oil Paintings in State House.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Annapolis, Md., Dec. 4.—The portraits of Robert Bowie, governor of Maryland from 1862 to 1868, and from 1881 to 1882, and of Hon. Matthew Flighman, "The Patriarch of the Colony of Maryland," provided for by the last legislature, through the work of the Peggy Stewart Tea Party Chapter, D. A. R., and painted by Miss Catherine Walton, of Annapolis, a member of the chapter, were turned over to the State this morning. The original portrait of Gov. Joseph Kent, 1825, presented to the State by his granddaughter, Miss Elizabeth Kent, of Washington, was also received at the State House to-day.

The portraits will be formally received by the governor in the chamber of the house of delegates on the evening of Monday, December 17, this being the anniversary of the day when Washington arrived in Annapolis to resign his commission. The Peggy Stewart Tea Party Chapter will at the same time present the State a painting of the burning of the brig Peggy Stewart, framed in recently recovered timbers of that craft.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE.

Negro Tried for Assault, but No Verdict Is Reached.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 4.—A hung jury resulted in the trial of John Smith, colored, to-day, for assaulting Mrs. Mollie Leggett, in Princess Anne County two months ago. The jury was discharged early to-night. The jury was solid for conviction, but could not agree as to the penalty. The first ballot taken by the jury stood 7 for the death penalty and 5 for "eighteen years imprisonment. On the last ballot were 5 for the death penalty and 3 for 18 years. A strong chain of circumstantial evidence was forced around Smith. Mrs. Leggett testified that the man who attacked her had two fingers missing from his right hand, and the marks left on Mrs. Leggett's neck indicated it.

Smith had two fingers missing from his right hand. The case was taken from Princess Anne County to Norfolk to prevent a certain effort at lynching and a consequent clash with the State troops who had Smith in charge.

FOUR BABIES BURN TO DEATH.

Home of Negro Destroyed While Attending Services at Church.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 4.—A belated report from Evington, Campbell County, nineteen miles from Lynchburg, tells of the burning, Sunday, of the home of John Irvine, a colored farmer, in which his four children, the eldest aged five, were burned. The father and mother went to church, leaving the children at home. On their return they found the ashes of their home, and only the burned bones of the children. Two hundred dollars in money was lost, in addition to the home.

Will Exhibit at Jamestown.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 4.—The Frederick County board of supervisors to-day gave official indorsement to a plan to exhibit the resources of this community at the Jamestown Exposition, and plans were adopted to carry on the work.
